

Maggie Ledwidge RGN

Case Manager and Registered General Nurse

Based in Horsham, West Sussex email: ml@benholden.net

Skills & Experience Summary

Maggie qualified as a stated registered nurse (RGN) in 1978 in London and a health visitor (HV) in 1979. She has worked extensively across health and social care settings including; acute, community, primary care, health authority, CCG and the private sector before going into case management.

Having started her career in an acute hospital, Maggie quickly transferred into the community setting, working within primary care as a health visitor. After having a family, Maggie returned to practice as a practice nurse and tutor. She specialised in respiratory and diabetes, moving into the private sector as a specialist in Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease Nurse Advisor.

In 2000, Maggie took a new direction and worked in performance and monitoring of services across the health and social care service, working with the Health Authority and Primary Care Managers to meet national targets and redesign services across Surrey.

Maggie developed her skills in the management of NHS organisations as an Organisational Development Manager and Executive Coach.

In 2008, Maggie returned to a more clinical role and managed an excellent rated large care home for adults with physical disabilities, acquired brain injury and complex neurological conditions. She developed the service to create a multidisciplinary team providing a more extensively respected care centre for adults, promoting their independence, individuality and quality of life. To achieve this she had close contact with specialists in the field of neurological conditions and their management.

As a case manager, Maggie has been able to incorporate all her extensive experience and knowledge to adults and children with brain injury, complex orthopaedic injuries, spinal injuries and respiratory conditions. She brings her clinical expertise, knowledge of the health and social care systems, training and the management of teams. Her passion is facilitating her clients to find their way and have quality of life in their current situation.
