Skills & Experience Summary

Since qualifying as a Registered Sick Children’s Nurse in 2003, Zoe has gained considerable experience in working with children and young people with complex needs and their families. Prior to commencing her role as case manager in 2019, Zoe had worked in hospice, hospital, and educational settings. Zoe is passionate about supporting children and young people with complex neurological and life limiting conditions. She has strong and consolidated management and leadership skills, having worked as a deputy service manager at a local children’s hospice prior to becoming a case manager.

Zoe completed her RSCN training at Southbank University London; her teaching hospital was Great Ormond Street, an international centre of excellence for child healthcare. On completing her training, Zoe worked on the international patients’ unit at Great Ormond Street, working closely with interpreters on the neurology and oncology ward.

Whilst working at a local children’s hospice Zoe took responsibility for the management of a large multidisciplinary team, as well as coordinating care packages, adhering to Care Quality Commission guidelines and managing a clinical caseload.

Predominantly, Zoe’s case management experience is working with children and young people, providing bespoke case management for clients with a variety of conditions such as hypoxic birth injury, spinal injury, polytrauma and other complex disabilities. Zoe works with clients and their families both pre- and post-settlement of personal injury and medical
